VOL. XXVII.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1905.

NO. 128.

Army Blue Cloth Suits,

WORTH $15 FOR $10.

A LARGE woolen cloth manufacturer in the East, on account of a strike, failed to deliver on time a large quantity of extra heavy Blue Army Cloth for the United States Army, and had the entire lot of many thousand yards thrown on his hands, and being in need of ready money, he accepted an offer of from a large clothing manufacturer for the entire lot. We have just received about seventy-five Men's Suits made of this cloth and are offering them at the remarkably low price of $10.00.

Sizes 35-44.

We also are having some of the same cloth made into Men's Overcoats and will receive them in about 10 days. This is truly an opportunity to buy winter clothing that can hardly be worn out, that will shed water like a rubber coat and is as heavy and warm as cloth can be made, and in this time of high prices for all woolen goods, it makes it all the greater bargain.

United States Army Shoes.

Don't forget the U. S. Army Shoes we are selling at $2.50. Six hundred pairs were sold in one week.

SPEAKING BY CANDIDATES.

Several Democratic Nominees Address Voters at the Court House.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

Republicans Joined in Applauding the Speakers who Made it Hot for the Ring.

A fairly good crowd attended the speaking at the court house Tuesday night, in spite of the rain and the other attractions in the city. Messrs. David Smith, candidate for sheriff; Herman Southall, for representative; Jno. C. Duffy, for attorney, and Judge Polk Cansler for County Judge made speeches. All were confident of success and gave cogent reasons for the bright prospects.

Mr. Duffy made the longest address, setting forth the issues of the campaign in detail. His arraignment of the ring for the misappropriation of the tax penalties by the sheriff was severe and he promised to bring a suit on the sheriff's bond to recover the amount estimated at $8,000 in four years, in the event of his election. He brought a new charge against the present sheriff, that he has made no monthly reports to the county clerk of taxes collected since June 1903, although the law fixes a penalty of $100 for each failure to make a report every month. He charged that the monetary transactions of the county were being purposely conceded by the "power behind the throne" of the present sheriff and the next sheriff, should the ring elect its candidate. Frequent applause greeted all of the speakers, which was joined by some of the Republican voters present.

STANLEY'S ELOQUENCE

Charmed The Tobacco Men At The Recent Meeting.

ELLIS' HIGH PRAISE!

Declares Stanley Can Be Congressman as Long as He Cares to Serve.

Congressman A. O. Stanley's speech at the Owensboro tobacco convention, was one of the leading features of the meeting. The young Congressman was introduced by Capt. W. T. Ellis.

Bouquet For Stanley.

In his introductory address Capt. Ellis paid an eloquent tribute to Mr. Stanley and his remarks received frantic applause. He said that Stanley was the greatest congressman the Second District has ever had; that he had done more on behalf of the farmers than any man who had served in the national congress from Kentucky for many years. Capt. Ellis further said that Stanley is the Second District's present congressman, its next congressman, and its congressman for a life time if he chooses. The Messenger in reporting the speech said:

The speech delivered by the Hon. A. O. Stanley was one of the most eloquent ever heard in Owensboro. For nearly an hour he kept the hundreds of people, delegates and others, assembled in the circuit court room in a state of almost breathless attention. So powerful was his influence the crowd forgot to cheer, and his most fervid periods were rounded out with absolute silence on the part of his auditors. Congressman Stanley has made many fine speeches in Owensboro, but his effort of Friday was universally conceded to be his masterpiece.

His audience was composed of the people for whom he has expended his most earnest efforts in congress and, evidently, he gained a new inspiration. Any attempt at a summary of his address necessarily falls far short of giving an adequate idea of what it really was.

Congressman Stanley declared that the thing which he shall deem his principal honor to his dying day is the fact that he stood with a band of 200 farmers less than three years ago, which band has now grown to 30,000 members and which is controlling the price of the principal product over a large section of the tobacco belt, a band that bids defiance to the machinations of a merciless combine. "I want it written on my shield in life," said the speaker, "and I want it inscribed on my tomb in death."

Stanley Introduces Gaines.

At this same meeting Congressman Stanley introduced Hon. John Wesley Gaines as follows:

"My good friends and fellow citizens," said Mr. Stanley, "you are ushered into the attitude of the man who went after a possum and caught a bear." Continuing he said: "Thank you for this spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm and hearty welcome to me. But there is one whose shoe latches I am not worthy to tie—the Hon. John Wesley Gaines, the pioneer in this great fight. What you need are honest men more than gifted men in public life—men who will not sell their souls. I want to say to you that John Wesley Gaines is as incorruptible as a sunbeam and as stainless as a star. I have the honor of introducing the farmers' friend and champion—the Hon. John Wesley Gaines."

BURNED TO DEATH.

Beautiful Young Lady Meets Sad Fate.

Morganfield, Ky., Oct. 25.—Miss Rosa Wathen, a young society belle of near this city, was burned to death at her home Saturday night. She was sitting in front of a fire reading, when suddenly her clothes were set on fire by the flames from the grate. She was badly burned and her death resulted from the burns and asphyxiation.

Miss Wathen was a pretty young society belle and was very popular in this county. She was the daughter of a widow and her family is very highly respected. The young girl's death was one of the most horrible accidents that has occurred in this county for many years and it was a great shock to the vicinity in which she lived.

WHY BUCK'S HOT BLAST

Heater Will Actually Pay For Itself.

Because Buck's Hot Blast will produce as much heat and as satisfactory a fire in every way, by using the cheapest dollar and a quarter coal, slack or screenings, as other heaters in which you must use high grade soft coal or hard coal. You can see at a glance how soon this saving in fuel will make a Buck's Hot Blast actually pay for itself. It is not the first cost of stove that counts so much, it is what you have to pay to feed it, in coal.

This is the "Buck's Stove."

LEARNING A LESSON.

A soft wind blew the clouds above our heads across to the hills of Crest, which lay to the north on our port beam. I stood on the starboard side of the bridge, and the third officer came and joined me there.

"I had a letter from the owners of the Glenora," he said. "We are to take a passenger at Port Jervis. She's going out to Singapore on a government ship. A little ship, but she's got a lot of money on board. I wonder why I get instructions to take her aboard. I know the sort of man who stands this one in water my profession."

"At Port Jervis," he said, "we were told a pretty girl with a nice figure and black hair that curled about her temples and around her ears. All the way down the river she was fitted with her of cotton waste. I spoke to the captain about it. Wilson retorted rather sharply. As the men were taking Mary Price across forward. For a moment the three of them looked at each other, and then Wilson spoke.

"What are we waiting for?" captain said.

"A new second engineer," Hoskins said.

"He was an under-sized, hateful-faced man. With a word of greeting he turned off to his quarters. Next time I saw him he wore a dirty blue shirt open at the neck and chest, and a pair of blue trousers turned up above the knees. He had on a pair of tennis shoes. He was unshaven, and was chewing a piece of cotton waste. I spoke to the captain about it. Wilson retorted rather sharply. As the men were taking Mary Price across forward. For a moment the three of them looked at each other, and then Wilson spoke.

"Why, Mary?" he said.

"She colored, but didn't look particularly pleased."

"Mr. Wilson—Tom," she said.

"Funny you coming out on this ship," he said.

"And your going on it, too," she answered.

"Well, he said, 'now that you are here, aren't you going to give me a kiss?'"

"I don't think I ought to," she said, shyly, with a glance at Hoskins, "before the captain, I mean."

"Quite right," said Hoskins, firmly. "I don't allow my officers to kiss girls in my presence. Some of 'em wouldn't know where to stop."

"I'm off duty," said Wilson, "and this is the girl I'm engaged to. I haven't seen her for a month, and now I'm going to have a kiss. If you don't like it, captain, you'd better turn your back. I don't want to hurt your feelings."

"Now, then, Mary," said the engineer, "I'm waiting."

She waited a minute, and then made a little sort of puckering kiss at him. Then she ran forward and Wilson, as if satisfied, turned and went into his cabin.

"George," said Hoskins to me, "there's something wrong here. Talk to me for a minute, and let me tell you a man that looks as though he was a rag bag struck by lightning. Mark my words, George, that poor girl's been forced into this engagement by her cruel parents. But I won't stand by and see her sacrificed."

After that he took extra care of her. She spent more time than ever on the bridge, and when she wasn't up there he was down on the lower deck with her. It was exactly as he expected. At least she told him so. The engagement had been her parents' making, and she had come to sea not to escape—she really was very fond of Mr. Wilson—but to find out whether her feelings would stand the test of time and absence.

Wilson paid no attention to the flirting of the captain and the girl. At Singapore they were together on the bridge. Wilson came up the companion, shaven and in a clean white drill suit. He touched his hat.

"What do you want?" the old man said.

"Short leave, sir," said the engineer. "I want to go ashore to get married."

"It'd be good to keep you from that," he said, "you may go."

Wilson touched his cap again. "Now, then, Mary," he said, "come along with me. I'll wait," said the girl, indignantly.

"The idea!"

"Very well," said Wilson, "but just listen to me for a minute, my girl. I'm here now, and I'm willing to take you on shore and marry you before the consul. If you don't like it, then I shall consider myself free again. If you don't think I haven't noticed your behavior on this ship, you're mistaken. A girl like you would look after me, and when I'm your husband I'm going to do it. As for getting married, if you think he has any idea of marrying you, you're wrong. He's not a marrying man. I shall be ready to go on shore in a quarter of an hour. If you're ready to go with me then, well and good. If not—"

He nodded significantly and left the bridge.

Mary Price had taken a look at Hoskins while the other was speaking, and told her all she wanted to know of the superiority of the captain's matrimonial intentions. So a quarter of an hour afterward as that engineer was going down the gangway she slipped her arm into his and went with him.

Hoskins looked after them rather anxiously.

"Wonderful, George, wonderful!" he said to me, "if I could be as firm with women as that chap is, I'd have a lot less trouble with them. He's taught me a lesson, George. He shall have a wedding present."

And he sent him a suit of clothes.

THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN.

With the election only ten days off, it is now conceded on all hands that the result, so far as the county ticket is concerned, is in great doubt.

Democrats are confident of success for their anti-ring ticket, and some very prominent Republicans openly admit that a "split ticket" will be the outcome. Both parties have taken poles of the county and the ring ticket is thoroughly secured and the Democrats greatly encouraged. The Republican majority is not nearly so large as it has been claimed. Under normal conditions there are about 4,000 Republicans in the county, but at least 25 per cent. of them are opposed to hereditary ring rule in the county and the returns from some strong Republican districts are going to be eye-openers to the ringsters. Party lines seem to be practically wiped out. Indeed, at least one of the ring candidates whose defeat seems sure, is hanging on by his eye-brows and hoping against hope that his Democratic friends will save him.

For the first time in years "money is talking" for the Democratic ticket. By this time next week the betting will be in favor of the Democratic ticket. The entire Democratic ticket will win, unless Democrats stay away from the polls. One thing is certain—the Republicans are going to do their part in defeating ring rule.

All over the county the Democrats are well organized and inspired with hope. They say they are going to vote and see that their neighbors vote. If they do this, it is all over but the shouting.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

LOCAL POINTERS.

Somebody remark that yesterday was show—er day.

Probably the tobacco growers have more to be thankful for this section than almost anybody else.

Nov. 24th will be the fifth anniversary of the biggest rise in Little River ever known.

The new bank will use three rooms in the Phoenix building. The floors of rooms two and three will be brought to a level with the corner room.

The electric railway franchise was sold on the 19th day of September. The purchaser yet has nearly sixty days to begin work.

And now Pembroke wants a tobacco warehouse. What the people of that enterprising little city want they generally get.

The popularity of the Turban hat was clearly proven to the writer one day this week. Eleven ladies out of fourteen, passing a given point, and wearing new hats, had selected the Turban.

We are not yet prepared to give out what the biggest thing that ever struck the town will be. We are still hoping. If it doesn't materialize soon we will tell what it ought to be.

Nobody complained of dust yesterday. The circus people would have rejoiced to see it, as they had nothing but dust and rain the day before at Clarksville.

The first of the Tabernacle entertainments will be given November 10th. Manager McPherson says the people are subscribing liberally, but to give the attractions in view he will have to sell more tickets than last season.

Ringling Brothers' circus surely is the favorite in Hopkinsville. As an evidence when the children were let out of the public schools Tuesday they were told that they need not return until Thursday morning.

The cashier of one of our local banks says the Stuyvesant Fish was in town last week and there wasn't water enough in the river to hold him. If he had been here Nov. 24th five years ago, he would have had plenty of water to swim in.

The best evidence of the prosperity of a town is the refusal of property owners to dispose of their real estate in the business portion of the town. The Elks would have preferred to locate their permanent home on Main street, but the purchase of a building on Main street, at this time, is almost an impossibility.

The production of "The Fortune Teller" at the opera house Tuesday night was entirely satisfactory and very pleasing and entertaining to the large and appreciative audience that witnessed it. The large crowd present, considering it was such a bad night, is evidence that our people appreciate Manager Ennis' efforts to secure first-class attractions.

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W. M. SECOND DISTRICT'S CONGRESSMAN.

In introducing Congressman Stanley before the tobacco growers' meeting at Owensboro, Hon. W. T. Ellis concluded with the statement that "Mr. Stanley is the Second District's present congressman, its next congressman and its congressman for lifetime, if he chooses." The sentiments expressed by Mr. Ellis reflect fully the views of the Gleaner. About a year ago the Gleaner published an editorial along the lines that the people of the Second district had ways made a mistake in changing their representatives in congress so frequently. For quite a long time after the writer had knowledge of politics of this district the people were largely of the opinion that two terms were sufficient for their congressman, and that it was due that they should favor some other gentleman with the honor.

The opinion has been steadily growing, however, that while it might be a nice thing to hand the position over to a favorite and no doubt the worthy sons, the best interests of the people were not being conserved by such a policy—that the people owed a duty to themselves to be as well represented in Congress possible and the best way to secure such a result is to keep their congressman there so long as he manifests the desire and the ability to do his duty and to grow in that position. The people owe nothing to anybody as a favor, but they owe it to themselves to do what is best for themselves and they have about concluded that the best thing they can do for themselves is to lengthen the tenure of the service of their representative in congress.

The writer confesses that at the outset of Mr. Stanley's career at Henderson, he had serious doubts as to the ultimate outcome. But Mr. Stanley has developed more than any man in this end of Kentucky during the past few years. This development has been along lines that are to be commended and admired. His ability must be admitted by all. His honesty and integrity as a public servant cannot be questioned. He is yet young in his manhood's prime, with the broad expanse of a great future before him. So far in his career he has more than justified the expectations of his warmest friends and has thoroughly satisfied those who have reposed a position of great trust in his hands.

All that Stanley has to do is to stay steady in the saddle, be true to the people as he has been, continue to expand and broaden as he has during the past few years, and the people of the Second district will have use for him for many years to come.

A good many voters are liable to lose their votes by not taking care of their registration certificates. There are more than 2,000 of these certificates held by voters and it would be very unusual if some of them did not misplace the valuable receipts. Better put it in some safe place at your place of business. You will have to take it with you when you go to vote and if you do not produce it you cannot vote. A voter who has lost his certificates and is willing to go before the county clerk and swear that he has lost it, can by paying 50 cents, get a duplicate. If he knows where it is and swears he has lost it he will have to perjure himself to get a duplicate. In the last election, the Republicans had workers at the registration polls to gather up certificates and "take care of them," in some places, but this year the work, if it is being done at all, is not being so openly prosecuted. It may be that the voters have learned how to take care of their own certificates.

The Presidential party was in Mobile Tuesday, in Montgomery yesterday and will be in New Orleans today. Everywhere the highest honor is being shown President Roosevelt.

El Haag Pacha, an envoy of King Menelik, of Abyssinia, arrived in New York this week, on his way to see President Roosevelt. In an interview he stated that he left behind him 3,000 slaves and 1,000 wives.

A JUDGE'S WIFE

PELVIC CATARRH

She Suffered For Years and Doctors Failed to Give Relief —Cured by Peruna.

Mrs. MINNIE E. McALLISTER, wife of Judge McAllister of Minneapolis, Minn., and Chaplain Loyal Myrtle Legion of America, writes:

"I suffered for years with catarrh in the secret of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured. As the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any."

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged."

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. I would like to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAllister.

Mrs. Esther M. Milnes, of Great Falls, writes:

"I was a terrible sufferer from pelvic weakness and had the headache continuously. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as fully as possible. You recommended Peruna. I took four bottles and was completely cured. I think Peruna, a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Esther M. Milnes.

Congressman Thad. M. Mason, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes:

"I take pleasure in commending your Peruna as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mason.

Peruna Contains No Narcotics. One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

As a tonic and nerve invigorator Peruna has no equal.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

The Unique Stories of Two Very Old Persons

The Task of an Eccentric Bachelor in Indiana Soldiers' Home—A Contented Old Maid of 101 Summers.

Among the two oldest living persons in Indiana to-day are Miss Eliza Williams, of Anderson, and Hugh DeWitt, who is an inmate of the soldiers' home at Lafayette. Miss Williams has passed the century mark, now nearing the age of 101 years, and DeWitt is 98, and both are yet in the enjoyment of reasonably good health. A peculiarity about the lives of both is that neither was ever married, although their reasons for remaining single are widely different. Miss Williams gives as her reason for remaining a spinster:

"God never intended that I should marry. I never cared for men, that is in a lover's way, and I have never had any mind for matrimony. I could have been married had I desired, for I have refused a score of offers.

DeWitt's reason for never marrying is disappointment in a love affair in his youth. "I loved once," he said, "and was deceived. I could never love another woman. Although false to me, I have carried the love of that first love in my heart to this day."

In speaking of this event in his early life DeWitt said to me, during a visit at the soldiers' home, that it occurred just after the close of the Mexican war. He was a member of an Indiana regiment in that struggle and when the war was over went to the gold fields of California in search of a fortune. Like so many others, his hopes of securing wealth were shattered, and he was on his way back to the States. He stopped in Colorado for awhile, and there he met the daughter of a rancher, who had emigrated to Colorado from the east.

It appeared to be a case of love at first sight, at least it was so on the part of DeWitt, and after a few weeks' courtship, they were engaged to be married. The preliminaries of the marriage were all arranged and it was to take place as soon as the license could be secured. This in that early day in Colorado was a hard matter to secure and there was considerable delay in getting it. In the meantime DeWitt was called to St. Louis on some important business matter to him, and when in several weeks he returned he found that the girl had married another man.

After that he wandered aimlessly about, working as a carpenter and at other trades, and finally settling down to a hermit's life in Indiana, living on a pension received from the government for his service during the Mexican war. Some years ago he went to the soldiers' home at Lafayette. He is now regarded as one of the most eccentric inmates there, he pointed out to the visitor as the man who has built his own coffin and his own tomb, giving his reasons that he has no relatives to care for him and that if he dies without the work being done around," said DeWitt in explanation of this fact. He smiled with bitterness at the bottom is concrete, and the roof, after the coffin is placed, will be of cement. DeWitt has done all the work. In it he had no assistance, either in excavating the earth, mixing the mortar or laying the brick that forms the walls of his tomb. Throughout it all he labored patiently, never happier than when he was at work at it. He is now waiting for the end of his life to come.

Miss Williams is perhaps the oldest old maid in the United States. Her girlhood home was in Pennsylvania, but for many years she has been living in Indiana. She says she has never kept company regularly with any young man. The offers of marriage that came to her came without the customary courtship, some of them pretty abruptly.

"I will have to tell you about one of them," she said laughingly. "It was in the case of a young man who had made his first call on me at our home. He had been there only a short time when, in the presence of the other members of the family he proposed marriage to me. He knew my objections to matrimony and, as he couched his proposal with the statement that he 'wanted a wife and a housekeeper,' I answered him pretty sharply. From my earliest girlhood days I was never in love, as other girls understand it. I do not really know what it is, because I never cared for men in that way. There are some people getting married that say married. The name 'old maid' never gave any offense to me. I believe I have been happier all of my life because I have not been married. At a century old I am attracting more attention as an old maid," she added with a smile, "than if I was a married woman."

Miss Williams did all her own housework until she was 90 years of age and continued sewing until she was 98. She has always been a great reader and well educated, having for many years been engaged in teaching. Although she has not been queen of a home, she has been a prince in it, devoting much of her life to the care of invalid patients and giving a mother's love and attention to several families of children.

"No," she said, "that was not my reason for never getting married. It was because I never loved in the lover's sense, or, as perhaps you would express it, I never met my fate. It was better than that. I have always been happy. I believe in looking on the bright side of life. Although I am growing very old, I try to feel young. I love to be in the company of the young. In many respects, I try to make their ways my ways. The old people ought to cultivate the spirit of feeling young even if our life's pendulum is rapidly approaching the time when it will cease to swing."

FRANK DILDINE.

Plenty of Soldiers. The French conscription for the army is more or less of a grab bag, and more than once some result has presented himself in answer to a summons, who has scarcely topped a yard measure. The recent conscription from the Rodez district tended somewhat to even things up, for one of the conscripts, with the diminutive name of Cot, was found to scale seven feet four inches. Nothing in the military stores would fit him, and before he could join the uniformed ranks he had to be provided with an outfit especially made for him. Because of the disparity of his size with that of his companions he will not be compelled to take his place in the ranks, but some special service will be found for him.

DE WITT'S MONUMENT.

dene more friends and acquaintances will not carry out his wishes.

He has been at work on his tombstone for five years. It is in the cemetery at Battle Ground, eight miles from Lafayette. The marble shaft is six feet high and two feet square, standing beneath a spreading tree to enclose the aunt's rays. On it, carved by DeWitt's own hands, are his name and the date of his birth and the following epitaph:

"A bachelor lies beneath this bed Who disobeyed the laws of God. Advice to others thus I give—Don't live a 'bach' as I did live."

The marble stands on a mound and beneath it the veteran has almost completed his grave. It is unlike any other grave in the cemetery and occupies more space. "I want plenty of room to

BAD DAY FOR CIRCUS.

Rain Yesterday Kept Large Crowd From City.

Yesterday was the worst day for a circus here since John Robinson's show visited the city in 1882. The rain that began to fall Monday night continued until yesterday afternoon, at times coming down in torrents. The crowd from the county was small, the different trains brought in a large number of people though. The circus didn't get through unloading until near 12 o'clock and there was no parade. The show people were all tired and the horses were covered with mud. It was 11 o'clock before the show people got their breakfast. On account of the rain at Clarksville the attendance was so small there that the day was a losing one. The attendance here was so light that the company lost greatly again.

The branch ticket office at Anderson & Fowler's proved a great convenience to the people.

One of the large wagons got stuck in the mud in Sharp's field, near the show ground, and 18 horses were required to pull it out.

Ringling Brothers are independent, not belonging to the trust, which has cut out street parades, but they are not rain proof.

There were only 28 of the 40 large elephants advertised seen here. They had 12 camels and 4 zebras.

The bad weather kept many thousands of dollars in the pockets of the people of the county.

THE THEATRE

A Show That Always Pleases
The Public.

Miss Jule Foreman starring at the head of the Jule Foreman Comedy Company in "Cinderella" appears at Holland's opera house Nov. 1 and 2 and the theatre-goers of Hopkinsville are promised one of the cleverest musical comedy productions ever offered here. Miss Foreman is a prima donna of note and her reputation is known from coast to coast. This will be her first tour under a Southern manager, for Mr. Alley is the Division manager who has ever ventured sufficient investment to carry a full company of capable people. Miss Foreman's tour this season covers over eighty cities and the company is booked to close the season in St. Louis next May. The beautiful play of "Cinderella" will never grow old to amusement lovers, however. Miss Foreman and her company will present a number of other new productions in her repertoire.

Next Attraction

Miss Charlotte Burnett who will appear in "The Honey-Moon", at Holland's Opera House, on Tuesday night, Oct. 31, is without doubt supported by the strongest cast of reputable artists leaving New York City.

It is seldom that Hopkinsville has an opportunity of witnessing a high class comedy with a recognized star supported by an all star cast, including George Sylvester, John E. MacGregor, G. H. Timmer, Miss Erin Lacy, Miss Caroline Bulow, Joseph Wilson, Marie Lambert and others, all of whom have won distinction with leading New York productions.

Manager Ennis should be congratulated and his efforts rewarded by liberal patronage in securing such a distinguished star as Miss Burnett. "The Honey-Moon", as a laugh producer stands pre-eminent as a play to please the people, and the public should avail itself of this opportunity of seeing one of the severest of young comedienne's supported by an all star cast, in the choicest of all refined comedies, "The Honey-Moon."
